

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

What is a municipal election?

- In Brunswick County, municipal elections are held in odd-numbered years to elect governing officials (mayors, city councils, town councils, etc.). This also includes sanitary districts and Doshier Hospital's governing board.
- The municipal election is open only to residents of the municipality. Voters must have lived in the municipality for at least 30 days before Election Day.
- In Brunswick County, municipal elections are nonpartisan. The party affiliation of candidates is not listed on the ballot.

What do I need to know about the municipal election?

- Not all voters in Brunswick County are eligible to vote in municipal elections.
- The city listed as part of your address does not reflect that you live within a municipality. That is providing your city for mailing and 911 purposes. Municipal elections can only be voted on if your home is within the jurisdiction's limits.
- Find out if you are eligible to vote in the municipal election by looking up your voter record. See back for instructions.
- A common misconception is that anyone who owns property or pays taxes to a municipality or county has the right to vote. The reality is that a person needs to establish that location as their permanent residence to vote there.
